Q: Where can I find a manual for using VCF To Gmail Converter Software? Zinc supplementation in kidney transplant recipients is well tolerated and not associated with increased risk of acute rejection. The kidney is the second most zinc-dependent organ in the body. Many studies in animal models have demonstrated the immune modulating properties of zinc, but the few human studies are inconclusive. To date, no studies have investigated the effect of zinc supplementation on the immune system in humans receiving kidney transplants. Here, we present the results of a double-blind, placebo-controlled randomized study investigating zinc supplementation in kidney transplant recipients. Ten zinc-deficient kidney transplant recipients were treated orally with a single dose of 30 mg zinc sulphate daily for 8 weeks. The results showed that the addition of zinc to the diet did not affect any markers of immune function, neither did it affect the incidence of acute rejection. Effects of a School-Based HIV-1 Vaccination Program in Ghana on HIV-1 Incidence in Injection Drug Users. We assessed the effectiveness of a school-based HIV-1 vaccination program in Ghana. A cluster randomized trial evaluated a three-dose HIV-1 vaccine in high-school students. Vaccine efficacy was estimated as (1-incidence rate ratio in vaccine vs. placebo clusters). Incidence in the vaccine group was 2.3/6a5afdab4c
