adding that the investigation would involve “matters beyond the power of the police”. The two-member committee set up to probe the cause of Prof Raman’s death has dismissed the suicide theory, and the police has hinted that an “assassination” could be the cause of death. Recently, President Ram Nath Kovind rejected the suggestion that Assange be granted asylum, in order to avoid extradition to the US on espionage and extradition to Sweden in the case of sexual assault. Assange is wanted in Sweden for questioning over allegations of sexual assault and rape from two women. Although he faces a maximum sentence of five years imprisonment if extradited from the UK, and 20 years if extradited from Sweden, Assange has been stranded in the Ecuadorian embassy in London since June 2012 and is seeking political asylum..18

New report calls for 'ban for all' on harmful asbestos The World Health Organisation (WHO) has launched a new report calling for a "global ban on all forms of asbestos" that will help people with asbestos-related diseases avoid exposure to the cancer-causing mineral. The report, published by the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) and the United Nations health agency, says that "asbestos remains a significant source of disease and death worldwide" and that continued use of the substance "threatens efforts to achieve a global elimination of deaths and disability related to air pollution". "While more than 80 countries and territories have already ratified the international instrument on asbestos, the WHO recommends that all countries, including those not yet party to the convention, join this global instrument," says the report. "As a first step, the WHO urges countries to adopt a comprehensive national plan for asbestos management at the national level, which includes the following elements: a ban on all forms of use; timely installation of abatement systems and prevention of new exposure; monitoring and surveillance of workers and the general population." The report also recommends that "the states parties to the Convention on International Civil Aviation sign and ratify the ICAO

Convention on the Medical Aspects of Transport of Human Beings”. Both documents call for greater collaboration between government bodies and non-government organisations to develop national, regional and global strategies for management of asbestos exposure, including a “system for the safe removal of all domestic and public buildings and structures containing asbestos”, as well as strategies to help people with medical problems related to asbestos. They also call for environmental organisations to “decentralise” distribution and consumption of asbestos fibres. “The WHO believes that as a global public health leader, it is the international organisation’s responsibility to provide an authoritative voice on this issue,” says Dr Marie-Paule Kieny, WHO assistant director-general for health systems and innovation. “Our objective is to support governments in their efforts to prevent exposures to asbestos
