BigPandaYou are here About us The Climate Information for Development Institute (CIDI) is a scientific alliance of the world's leading energy and climate change organisations representing some of the most important players in the energy and development sectors. Our goal is to inform and support development practitioners, policymakers and international NGOs working to protect people from climate change-related risks and promote sustainable development. We also aim to assist our partnership members in the good management of their climate related projects. A CIDI project will bring you: Cost-effective capacity-building that will enable you to better understand and respond to climate change. Climate change knowledge as a key input for supporting your work

New ways of managing risk and uncertainty as a result of climate change
New ways of measuring and reporting on results and impacts Connections, networking and partnerships in order to increase your impact and contribution to solutions to climate change
How to join CIDI
To join CIDI you need to be a member of an existing partnership. CIDI partnerships are all over the world. The CIDI Global Network consists of over 24,000 partners and participants who share CIDI's goal to provide information, support and capacity-building services to support their work. CIDI actively works to help develop and encourage the development of partnerships in the energy and climate change sectors to build the capacity of individuals and organisations to respond effectively to the full range of climate change concerns. If you are a member of an existing partnership and you want to join CIDI, please contact us to express your interest to become a member
