by SK Jain ¹. Cited at 25 - structures in separate parts Thus, IS 1893 has been divided into the following five parts: a) Part 1 General provisions and buildings b) Part 2 Fluid. This section discusses the properties of water in sense of its response to various physical and chemical influences. In this essay, as in the previous one, a sufficient number of illustrations are given for a better understanding of the subject. In this part there are also references to the literature in order to familiarize yourself with it. Part 3 Gas. This part deals with the properties of gas and gas in the solid state, as well as the properties of air. References are also included in this part for reference purposes.
